Who Should Apply for This Course?

This Advanced Management Programme is an open invitation to aspiring and existing leaders everywhere to rise to the challenge, pursue excellence, and invest in a sustainable future for all. Here, AMBS and FPD redefine what's possible in global management education, creating a legacy of impactful, accessible, and transformative leadership development. This course is suitable for:

1. Experienced Leaders Seeking Transformation:

Executives, managers, and organisational leaders who aspire to enhance their ability to inspire, lead, and implement transformational change across teams, organisations, and communities.

2. Emerging Leaders Preparing for the Future:

Aspiring leaders looking to build all the foundational managerial and leadership competencies they may require for the future but anchored on a system of promoting transformation and positive change.

3. Change Agents Committed to Ethical Leadership:

Individuals who are passionate about promoting transparency, accountability, and governance in their organisations while navigating complex systems with integrity and social responsibility.

4. Strategic Innovators and Visionaries:

Professionals who want to master the art of identifying and leveraging business trends, managing change, and leading innovative strategies to drive growth and societal impact.

5. Critical Thinkers and Problem Solvers:

Who need managerial and leadership skills to effectively translate their insights into action and drive meaningful change. Without leadership skills even the best ideas risk being misunderstood, poorly implemented, or failing to gain the support needed for success.

6. Leaders with a Commitment to Sustainability:

Visionaries dedicated to creating a positive societal impact through sustainable, ethical practices and fostering inclusivity in a volatile and uncertain world.

Whether you are leading a corporate team, a non-profit, or a start-up, or preparing to take on such a role, this programme provides the tools and frameworks to elevate your leadership and drive systemic change in an increasingly complex global environment.

What you will learn in these modules

Transformational Leadership: This year-long module is an exploration into leading with influence and integrity, focusing on personal growth and the ability to inspire collective action towards meaningful change within your team, your organisation, your society and the world through implementing a transformational project.

Leading Innovation and Change: This module equips you with the skills to identify business trends, analyse growth opportunities, manage strategic execution, and implement change management techniques while understanding and managing resistance to change, culminating in crafting effective communication plans for successful transformation.

Corporate Accountability and Governance: In this module, you will learn to navigate and manage the complexities of information asymmetry between board members and executives, linking organisational values and ethics to governance, effectively managing legal risks, combating corruption, and developing strategies for stakeholder engagement and decision-making transparency.

Strategic Relationship Management: You will master the fine art of balancing internal and external stakeholder needs as this module enhances your ability to strategically analyse and engage with internal and external stakeholders, evaluate their perceptions of your organisation, and develop detailed customer personas to better tailor your products and services.

Strategic Financial Management: This module delivers comprehensive skills in financial analysis, risk management, financial modelling, and the design of performance measurement systems, enabling you to evaluate financial health, manage financial strategies, and communicate complex financial information to stakeholders for informed decision-making.

Data Science Strategies for Executive Success: Through this module, you will demystify the role of data science in strategic decision-making, assess the tools and emerging technologies including AI, and recommend processes for objective data-driven outcomes while fostering a continuous learning environment for data science within your organisation.

Critical Thinking: This module focuses on defining critical thinking, distinguishing instinctual versus analytical thinking, analysing cognitive biases, designing systems to promote critical thinking and counter biases both personally and within organisational structures, evaluating the influence of cognitive biases in marketing and achieving policy impacts through leveraging behavioural science. Critically, you will be able to implement systems in your personal and professional life to promote critical thinking and avoid making major decisions based on cognitive biases.

About the Course Leader

Dr Abdoulie Sallah is an Associate Professor of Leadership and Management at Alliance Manchester Business School.

He is interested in the politics of knowledge production, and his research and writing is an attempt to understand and re-significance the excluded, occluded, omitted and marginalised narratives and voices in management and organisation studies (particularly those from the South). He is interested in organisational leadership and spaces, work and its organisation, postcolonial reasoning, employee engagement, the informal economy, globalisation and entrepreneurship. He is the editor of the Journal of Critical Southern Studies (Globalisation and Development Stream) as well as a reviewer for seven other peer-reviewed international journals.
